

Fall 2009

Anthro Club

November | Biological

- ▶ We're happy to end our fall meetings with Dr. Frank Williams, our very own biological anthropologist!

- ▶ Our last Happy Hour will be Friday, November 20, 8:00 pm at The Porter Beer Bar in Little Five Points (1156 Euclid Ave; www.theporterbeerbar.com). Come relax with your classmates before finals begin!
- ▶ Our November event will be seeing the play Hominid at Emory, Wednesday, November 18, 7:00 pm. The play is based on the book Chimpanzee Politics by Emory professor Frans de Waal. This is a "Pay What You Please" showing, with minimum donations starting at $1!
- ▶ If you're still in town, save the date for an End of Semester Party at Kelly Murray's house in Kirkwood, Saturday, December 12. The event will be a potluck, and the exact time and address will be given out later this month!

Other Events:

The Evolution of Brain, Mind and Culture

November 12-13, 2009
3rd floor Reception Hall, Michael C. Carlos
Museum, Emory University

Hominid is presented in conjunction with this (free!) conference. Directions and details on the schedule of interesting lectures by anthropologists and psychologists can be found here:

cmbc.emory.edu/events/conference\_announce.html

Chomp & Stomp

Saturday, November 7
10:00-6:00

A little bit of country in the city. The annual festival honors the history of Cabbagetown, a neighborhood near campus that was built for factory workers in the late 1800s. Bluegrass all day, a chili cook-off at noon with celebrity chef judges, art, beer...the list goes on! For more details and directions:

www.chompandstomp.com

---

*Good luck with finals at the end of the month,
and thanks to everyone for a great semester!
We hope to see you all in the spring!*

Department Happenings:

From the Trenches to the Fernbank: A Georgia State University Ethics Bowl

Tuesday, November 10, 7:30 pm, Fernbank Auditorium.

Students from Dr. Margomenou's Public Archaeology class will compete in an Ethics Bowl for the Greater Atlanta Archaeological Society at the Fernbank Museum of Natural History. Come support your classmates!

www.fernbankmuseum.org

Student Research Brownbag Colloquium

Tuesday, November 17, Anthro Department

Bring your lunch and come support the grad students and hear about their interesting research!