

GSU Model United Nations and Model Arab League Teams win top awards

Monday, April 25, 2011 - Sarah Sunderland

THE GSU Model United Nations and Model Arab League Teams earned top honors at national competitions over the last two weeks.

The Model Arab League Team, comprising 17 students and representing Syria, won the Outstanding Delegation Award at the National Model Arab League Conference in Washington DC.

The Model United Nations Team, comprising 34 students and representing Kazakhstan and Kyrgyzstan, won the Outstanding Delegation Awards at the National Model UN Conference in New York.

The National Model UN simulation involves 3500 student delegates from all over the world. Top awards are given to teams judged to be in the top two percent.

Congratulations to the students who worked hard and once more showed the true potential of GSU students. The program is supported by the Department of Political Science, the Middle East Institute and the Office of the Dean of Arts and Sciences.
